

NOT BOUGHT.

Philadelphia Not Corrupted by the Anti-Temperance People.

New York, April 2.—The Herald this morning states that the prohibition organ, Vote, will to-morrow publish the details of an alleged corrupt conspiracy entered into between the liquor dealers of Pennsylvania and the leaders of both political parties of that State, by which the proposed prohibition amendment to the Constitution was defeated last fall. A fund of nearly $500,000 is alleged to have been contributed by the liquor hotel proprietors, brewers, etc. This money, according to the Vote, was distributed among leading politicians and the press of the State, $4,000 being mentioned as the amount paid to one Philadelphia paper.

The Herald's Philadelphia correspondent telegraphs that he has interviewed a number of the proprietors of newspapers mentioned by the Vote in connection with the matter, and they all pronounce the story as false so far as their respective papers are concerned.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—The Times this morning publishes the following account of the Police exposure: Harry J. Crowell, secretary of the Brewers' Association, said last night at the Manner-Club, 551 North Fifth street, on being shown the above telegram: "I have never made such a statement to anybody under any circumstances, and emphatically declare it false in every respect."

(Mr. Crowell's unqualified denial of the fact that the story leaves little to be desired. If he ever did make any such statement it is absolutely and wholly untrue as far as it relates to the Times, and we believe it to be untrue as to the other Philadelphia papers.)

George W. Childs, the proprietor, and William U. McKean, the editor-in-chief of the Public Ledger, last evening denounced the statement, so far as it relates to the Times, as "a lie." The statement is a damned lie, as far as the Record is concerned. The Record was shown the dispatch last night. As he read it over he said: "It is a lie. It is beneath notice."

A WEST VIRGINIA DUEL.

Fought With Blank Cartridges and Nobody Hurt.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 2.—Wm. Bond and James Rudolph, two society youths, fought a duel at a point about three miles east of this city at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The duel was fought with blank cartridges, but the fact was known to the principals, one of whom (Bond) was very much in earnest.

Rudolph, it is alleged, insulted Bond a few days ago while they were calling on a lady. Bond was noted for his excessive politeness, and whom Rudolph and his friends looked upon as a harmless dupe, wrote a note to Rudolph, in which he administered a severe lecture on the subject of politeness to humiliate Bond. Rudolph sent him a challenge. Bond accepted at once, and named swords, but through a mutual friend was induced to make it revolvers.

The mutual friend, however, thinking with blank cartridges, and the party left the city of 4 a. m., after trying to obtain the services of a physician. The doctor threatened to have the party arrested, and they concluded to go without medical aid.

Rudolph was let into the blank-cartridge secret, but Bond was in dead earnest all through, having written letters to his mother and friends, to be delivered in case he was killed. Bond fired in the air, and then stood up and took his opponent's discharge, repeating this on the second discharge.

The principals then said they were satisfied and returned to the city. The prosecuting attorney is in possession of the facts. All of the parties are of the highest standing.

FIRST IN THE FIELD.

A Metaphysical Student Who is a Presidential Candidate.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—J. T. Price of Saline County, Mo., is the first candidate for President in 1892 in the field. He is a graduate of several German universities and is well-to-do. He has long studied the politics of this country from a metaphysical standpoint and has felt the need of a Christian element in the conduct of the Government.

He thinks the time when so many farmers and laborers are banding together to resist monopoly and oppression is the best time to introduce his theory of Christianity, and he has organized a series of lectures, and proposes by a combination of Christianity and politics to solve the difficulties and differences of the day. In the circulars he is preparing he announces that he will visit Saline County, Mo., as your candidate for President of the United States subject to a vote of the whole people in favor of Christianity and labor electors."

BULLS AND BEARS BALKED.

No Chicago Stock Quotations Received.

St. Louis, April 2.—A new regime was inaugurated on the Merchants Exchange and in the bucket shops yesterday, owing to the withdrawal of the Chicago official quotations. On the Merchants' Exchange the New York quotations were substituted for those of Chicago, and this course is to continue.

The greatest interest is centered in the bucket shops, who still declare that they will have no difficulty in furnishing the Chicago prices to their customers. They will get of course, lack the official stamp, but the bucket shops will be no worse off than the rest of the country in this respect, and they assert their ability to obtain and post accurate information of every change in the market. Yesterday, being election day in Chicago, there were no markets, so the real tests will be made to-day.

THE FUR SCANDAL.

New York, April 2.—A special from Ottawa, Ont., says: The Brenner Fur Committee met yesterday. General Sir Frederick Middleton admitted that he had ordered the furs to be confiscated, and had ordered that a share be put up in sales and forwarded to Bedford, Mr. Reed, Assistant Indian Commissioner, and himself. The committee will probably take the House to vote Brenner $4,500 as compensation.

Ladies Have it All Their Own Way.

CONCORD, N. H., April 2.—In the election yesterday for members of the Board of Education the women were especially active, and their votes counted. Mrs. Mary H. Woodworth triumphed by a majority of about 1,000 in a total of 1,600 votes.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., April 2.—The Northern visitors and the residents celebrated the anniversary of Ponce de Leon's landing in Florida by a brilliant festival yesterday. There were rattles, masquerades, salutes from the fort, music and dancing.

SPRING SPORTS.

Events in the World of Baseball, Football, Etc.

Paul Hines has got himself in trouble with the Pittsburgh Club, and the general center fielder will have to play in that city during the coming year. At the recent transfer of the Indianapolis players to New York Hines was included in the deal. When day asked for terms Hines put his figures rather high and the New Yorker retorted by saying that Hines was not wanted. For some reason the release was not promulgated, and other clubs in the League were notified. Hines thought he was free to sign where he pleased, and had completed arrangements to play on the new Atlantic Association team in this city. But his plans were knocked into a cocked hat, for the Pittsburgh Club yesterday put in a claim for his services and accepted his terms. Paul was considerably put out by the move, and last night he would not go to the Smokey City under any circumstances. He wants to play here, but it is hard to see how he can avoid going to Pittsburgh. The contract calls for $2,800.

The Pittsburgh National League Club last night offered First Baseman Beckley the captaincy of the team, a salary of $4,000 a year for three years and $5,000 cash to play with the club. Beckley refused to offer.

At a meeting of the Federation of Labor of the District last night a boycott against the Washington club was ordered. The order was that President Hewitt and his family, with the Carpenters and Joiners' Assembly of this city by employing non-union men in the construction of the new park. There was no evidence of the boycott in the morning, but any trouble existed between the contractor and the men. A large force of men were busy engaged in erecting the grand stand and working side by side with the laborers. The contractor, Mr. James Dunn, did not take much stock in the alleged boycotting order. "It is true," he said, "that I have several men working here, who are not members of the union. They have been with me for three years and I do not propose to discharge them. All the rest are union men and are satisfied. This trouble arose because I would not give the order of work order. I told him I would give him a job, but he said there was room for him and we received more lumber with which to work, but this did not satisfy him. I am also willing to give union men the same work, but he said I would not discharge an old employee to make room for any of them."

The World this morning says it has information that efforts are being made by the Brotherhood of the Brotherhood to have Dick Johnston sign with them. Johnston did not accompany the Brotherhood team South. Charlie Gansell is said to be making some tempting offers to Johnston to forsake the Brotherhood.

President Robinson of the Cleveland last night stated that if the Brotherhood changes its schedule, the League would also change. He declared the players' preference in favor of the fight, if the League had to change its schedule twenty times.

The game to-morrow between the Washingtons and Lehigh University will be played at Capitol Park. The new grounds will not be opened until Friday.

At a meeting of the Pelican Club in London yesterday it was decided to offer George Dixon, the colored featherweight, $500 for expenses to meet Nims in place for the feather-weight championship of the world for a purse of $5,000.

Young Mitchell and La Blanche have been matched for a finish fight for a $3,000 purse on June 27 at the Coliseum Athletic Club.

In an interview last night J. J. Corbett, the California boxing professor, who defeated Kilrain at New Orleans, said he was ready to meet Sullivan if the Olympic Club at San Francisco would allow him to do so. He would not say he expected to beat Sullivan, but he would try to hold his end up.

Harold St. John, who claims the full-fencing championship of the United States, yesterday defeated Sergeant William Williams, late of the British Life Guards, in a fencing match at the Eden Musee, winning four bouts out of five, and taking a purse of $100, put up by members of the New York Athletic Club.

A dispatch from Chicago says Dick Roche announces that he will beat Jake Schaefer, at odds of $6,000 to $4,000, at any game on a billiard table except cushion caroms, the play to extend over five nights. Roche also offers Schaefer $5,000 to $10,000 against Slosson at cushion caroms, the game to extend over five nights.

A BROTHERHOOD COUNCIL.

Players' League Measures Under Consideration in New York.

New York, April 2.—A special meeting of the Players' Baseball League is being held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel to-day. The object of the conference is to discuss generally the outlook for the coming season and to provide for the success of the Brotherhood movement.

An important question before the League is the proposition to change the schedule. The men who have put the League into the hands of the players fix the dates in the schedule so as not to clash with the games of the National League, while the players are opposed to anything of the sort.

Another question relating Beckley of Pittsburgh and Delahanty and Mulvey of Philadelphia, who went back to the National League after signing with the Brotherhood, will come before the meeting, and as there seems to be no compromise the trio will probably be received with open arms.

The meeting was called to order shortly after noon. Among the early arrivals were Messrs. Hart and Kelly, Boston; Vanderheyden and Wood, from Philadelphia; Shire and White, from Buffalo, and Secretary Brunell. There were also on the scene Umpires Gaffney, John Knight, Barnes, Ferguson, Holbert, Gunning and Matthews, who had come on to confer with Secretary Brunell as to any changes in the playing rules.

Wary, worn and discouraged, Heartick and hopelessly and longed for help and comfort.

When none can be had, describes the condition of those persons who are said to be "going down hill," or "going into a decline." There is an insupportable weakness of the system, a general lack of vitality. They cannot tell what the matter is with them. They only know that they feel miserable in mind and body. They are gloomy and despondent. They have tried this and that remedy prescribed by their friends or the doctors. They have failed to receive any benefit from them. They reach the conclusion that there is no help for them and that they must die. Now he says that the trouble originates in the cases out of the system, in the blood. There is poisonous matter in it that ought to be got rid of. But how can this be done? Simply by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which acts on the blood and various organs of the body in such a way that it cleanses the system. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure all cases of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be refunded.

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

Lawyer Moss Makes Charges Against Prosecuting Attorney Dumont.

Late yesterday afternoon Attorney Moss called Judge Miller's attention to the fact that on Saturday he had filed with Clerk Claggett an affidavit that he would like to have receive some consideration. The substance of this affidavit was as follows: That on the 25th day of March, 1890, Mr. Neil Dumont shook his fist in the (Moss's) face, and stated at the same time that he would knock him through the door, the said gesture and remark being calculated to provoke a quarrel and fight in the presence of the Court. Moss thereupon prays that a rule may be issued against the said Dumont to appear at once and show cause why he should not be fined for contempt of Court.

This affidavit was the outcome of the affair that occurred in the Police Court on the same day, March 25, when Moss applied a profane remark to Police Officer Acton, for which he had to pay a fine of $100. The case was called up in the Police Court Mr. Armes, who represented Mr. Dumont, moved that the petition be thrown out, on the ground of irregularity, and Mr. Moss refused to accept the motion.

Judge Miller said that he would take the case under consideration and would announce his decision. No rule has as yet been issued by the Court. Mr. Dumont, however, has been very much pleased to have the language that the affidavit sets forth. If he had the Court would have "called him down" for contempt, as what was said by him was in the presence of the Judge.

POLICEMEN ON TRIAL.

Several Officers Called on to Answer Before the Board To-day.

The police trial board held a lengthy session to-day at headquarters and considered several cases. Officers Burdette and Fitzgerald of the Sixth Precinct were on trial, the former for assaulting a woman in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike Fitzgerald, and seeing Fitzgerald as he was in the act of leaving the station, struck him a blow on the head with his fist. Fitzgerald in the station-house and the latter for using insulting language in the presence of Mrs. Burdette, wife of the officer. It was alleged that Fitzgerald met Burdette in the station and without cause or provocation, referred to Mrs. Burdette in language that the husband could not tolerate. Burdette proceeded to strike